Thomo's History Corner

Origin of the saying "She's cactus!". Prickly pear cactus (native to South America) was brought to Australia in 1788 on the first fleet. It quickly became a pest, overrunning many thousand acres of farmland. To combat it, the caterpillar/moth Cactoblastis (also South American) was introduced in the 1920s. Wildly successful, it practically eliminated the spiny exotic in a few years. Hence, CACTUS in Australian slang means beaten, finished, ruined, kaput etc.
